INTRODUCTION

Every now and then in our lives, we meet kind people who offer advices that we tend to take for granted. On hindsight, they were proven to be true and we moved on with lessons learned the bitter way. If only we have listened.

If only we have listened, we would not have paid a heavy price for it. The consequences can be dire if we ignore the advice or the lessons that people shared with us. If we were advised not to drive when intoxicated, we would have avoided death, paralysis or injury caused by car accidents. If only we have listened.

Why did I not listen? Lackadaisical attitude I supposed. My point is this.

If we choose to ignore what the government or kind-hearted people say for the prevention of this global pandemic crisis, we will pay for a lesson. One way or the other.
