Introduction

You've heard that selling "stuff" on eBay®, Craigslist, flea markets, yard sales and other locations is a great way to make money. But maybe you don't have anything to sell. And perhaps you don't even have enough money to purchase something that you can sell on the auction site.

Does that mean you need to give up your idea of making money on eBay®? Are you out of luck?

Not at all!

You see, that's why I created this report. Over the next several pages you'll find 27 ways to get your hands on plenty of free stuff, from toys to clothing to expensive travel vouchers. (Some of these ideas will even put cash in your hands so that you CAN buy products to put on auction!)

Best of all, these are ideas that are available to almost everyone. You see:

- ✓ Many of these ideas work no matter where you live in the world.
- ✓ These ideas work without regard to ability (or disability).
- ✓ You don't need any special knowledge or connections.

In short: No matter what your situation, there are plenty of ideas in this report that you can put to use immediately to get products you can sell online.

So, without further introduction, let's jump into the meat of this report...

1. Sign Up For Credit Cards That Offer Free Incentives

What do San Antonio Spurs bleacher cushions, sunglasses, t-shirts and travel vouchers have in common?

These are all items you can get for free when you sign up for a new credit card.

Now, you should NOT sign up for a bunch of credit cards just to grab a freebie, because everything you do affects your credit score.

However, if you're shopping around for a credit card anyway, then choose one that gives you all the features you want PLUS a free gift just for filling out the application. And make sure your card gives you "points" that you can use to purchase travel, hotel, gift certificates and other gifts.

Tip: If your goal is to get hotel or airfare vouchers, make sure they're transferable (otherwise you won't be able to sell them on eBay®).

Where do you get these offers? Here:

- 1) Check your mailbox. Chances are, you're already receiving enticing offers in the mail.
- 2) Search online. You can search for credit card offers online by using terms like "credit card specials" or "credit card incentives." You can also go directly to trusted sites like <https://www.creditcards.com/best-credit-cards/>
- 3) Go on campus. If you're a student, check out your student union / commons area frequently. Sometimes you'll find people offering freebies for filling out applications.

2. Participate In A Timeshare Presentation

Definition: A timeshare is a property owned by multiple people, where each owner has the right to use the property during specific times of the year. Typically, people purchase a timeshare as a vacation property.

If you don't mind sitting through a few hours of hard selling, then this is the idea for you. All you have to do is listen to one or more salespeople give a timeshare presentation and you can get free gifts such as restaurant gift certificates, travel vouchers and more.

Tip: Use this presentation as a learning experience. Instead of viewing it through the eyes of a potential consumer, instead you can view it through the eyes of a student marketer. What sort of persuasion tactics does the salesperson use? How do they attempt to "close" you? In addition to using reciprocity (the free gift), what
