Introduction

For the past few months, we have witnessed history happening right before our very eyes. We got to see how vulnerable we could be as creations, a generation, and individuals. For many people, all there is to ask is probably, "What more can be worse than this fate?"

But I know you are different. That is perhaps why you are reading this in the first place— so you can use the current problem to thrive and still earn your keep despite the circumstances. And so you could gain bits of wisdom every step of the way.

There is one thing you may have overlooked, though. Something you will only appreciate if you have truly valued your own process.

It's this: no matter how awful things have turned out for you this year, there could still be actual individuals whom, if we compare our struggle with, our own process had still been gentle and gradual. That may seem hard to believe, but there are actually people whose home did not merely serve as a place of protection but also as a place of total isolation.

Let me tell you a little story. BIG BROTHER CANADA PREMIERED WITH ITS NEW SEASON before COVID-19 became a global pandemic (i.e., a serious global threat). As you probably already know, Big Brother is a T.V reality show that puts together people of different backgrounds to live in the same house and get isolated from the outside world for months.
