

Easily House Train Any Dog

I think I'm supposed to go outside to do this -
Can someone open the door please?

Jed Reynolds

Table Of Contents

INTRODUCTION

Chapter 1 - Why Dog Training is Essential

Chapter 2 - The Right Start

Chapter 3 - Training a Puppy

Chapter 4 - Training Juvenile and Adult Dogs

Chapter 5 - House Manners

Conclusion

Legal Notice:

The author and publisher of this book have used their best efforts in preparing this book. The author and publisher make no representation or warranties with respect to the accuracy, applicability, fitness, or completeness of the contents of this book. The information contained in this book is strictly for information and educational purposes. Therefore, if you wish to apply ideas contained in this book, you are taking full responsibility for your actions.

The author and publisher disclaim any warranties (express or implied), merchantability, or fitness for any particular purpose. The author and publisher shall in no event be held liable to any party for any direct, indirect, punitive, special, incidental or other consequential damages arising directly or indirectly from any use of this material, which is provided "as is", and without warranties.

As always, the advice of a competent professional should be sought. The author and publisher do not warrant the performance, effectiveness or applicability of any sites listed or referred to in this book. Any links are for information purposes only and are not warranted for content, accuracy or any other implied or explicit purpose.

GREY MOUSE PUBLICATIONS

INTRODUCTION

Although dogs shouldn't be attributed with having human characteristics, they are intelligent enough to be able to understand the concept of, and execute, certain actions that their owners require of them - if these actions are asked in a way that dogs find rewarding. So, with this rule in mind, owners have to be clever as well and find a way of training their dog that actually works quickly and efficiently. This eBook explains how to achieve this ideal - how to speak "dog" so that you're able to communicate effectively with your four-legged friend.

As with any training, the best time to start is as soon as you get your new pet. The fundamentals for successful housetraining are:

- Crate training is very important so it should be mastered.
- A schedule is required for feeding and exercising.
- Be vigilant and patient throughout the training period.

House training is most likely every dog owner's top concern. And it should begin as soon as possible. That's the very first day your dog comes into your home. If you've adopted a new furry friend and spend months in the home without aiding them to achieve success when it comes to training then his going to set a precedent that you now need to change.

So, concentrate on prevention as opposed to cure. House training comes down to one rather simple skill - being a good dog time manager. And this means managing your pup's time so that you let them have as few chances as possible to make house training blunders.