The content provided in this ebook is for informational purposes only and should not be considered professional financial, tax, health or legal advice. My thanks to Derek Murphy for the creation of creativindie prompts. All images created are unique and these prompts are put together to give a basic set of sectional prompts that when combined will give the user the desired result. Be aware of copyrights on trade marks etc, as you couldn't use it commercially. If you are not sure my advice would be do not use it and look for an alternative prompt that is close to it. You assume all the risks of your decisions and you are solely responsible for conducting thorough, independent research before taking action. Please be sure to do your own follow up due diligence.

What are the best text-to-image prompt keywords for unique types of art and photographic styles? For best AI art results? How about architecture, fantasy art, character renders and logo design?

I've been playing with Midjourney and other text to image generators built around stable diffusion and I have my own prompts to get the best quality images, but recently I let chatGPT3 help me brainstorm some new ones... so here's a huge list!

I'll go through soon and make examples of some of these so you can see the differences, but here's a handy reference guide. Note: it's dodgy, but not illegal, to copy an artist's style directly by using their name (for living artists at least); but you could also just paste in 2 pieces of artwork and reproduce something much closer to their originals. So these prompts will help you get what you want faster, but they're just a starting point for you to develop "ethical" Midjourney prompts that are more unique.

Best MidJourney Prompts: Basics

Keep things simple in the beginning, just describe what you want to see. Then add styles until it's closer to what you've imagined. Mostly likely, you'll want either an artistic, illustrative style or a photorealistic style. But you can also make logos, sketches, tattoo or comic book art, children's books... the sky is the limit and the results are insane.

At the basic level, just describe what you want to see. You can use full sentences or not, but the more complex, the trickier it gets. You can have a realistic close-up portrait, but if you do a big scene with lots of detail, it'll get kind of close but not perfect.

For best AI art results, it's important to provide clear, descriptive text-to-image prompts and to adjust the settings in the AI tool to your desired level of customization and control. Experimenting with different keywords and styles can lead to surprising and unique AI generated images and art.

If you don't pick ANY style, it will guess, and it may not guess what you want.
