

How a group of Monkeys
took over a school cafeteria

J T White

In an era long past, nestled within the confines of a quaint settlement known as Jungleville, stood a peculiar institution known as Monkey Academy. This wasn't your typical school; it was a place of learning for a bunch of mischievous monkeys, known across the town for their pranks and unruly behavior. They were notorious for causing upheavals, turning every situation into a chaotic frenzy of fun.

One fine day, these lively simians grew tired of the repetitive and bland food served in their school cafeteria. They yearned for something more, something that tantalized their taste buds. Their adventurous spirits sparked an ingenious idea - to take control of the school cafeteria themselves and add a dash of excitement to their meals.
